

Overview

“The passage of time flows under the watch of the Old Gods, each month a mantle of their dominion.”

Each month of the year is dedicated to an Old God, who presides over its days and season. Their influence shapes the world, guiding the growth of life, the turning of the seasons. Observing the cycle and understanding which deity governs each month allows mortals to align their actions with the rhythm of the Old Gods, gaining favor or wisdom through the passage of time.
